

Should Meta Tags be more than one Word?

Posted by TheDrifter - 2012/09/22 16:01

I know Uncle Google Search doesn't give a heavy weight on meta tags anymore but some search engines still do I'm just wondering if tags should be one or more than one or maybe a short sentence?

=====

Re:Should Meta Tags be more than one Word?

Posted by mastermind11 - 2012/12/28 10:25

Yes , you are right that some search engines yet give a weight-age to meta tags , but you can use 1-2 words for these tags. There will be no problem.

Thanks:)

=====

Re:Should Meta Tags be more than one Word?

Posted by BigPanda - 2013/05/09 06:35

Yes agreed with it. it fine to use 2, 3 words meta tags.

=====

Re:Should Meta Tags be more than one Word?

Posted by VincentLeclerc - 2013/05/21 06:48

You are correct, some search engines re-age meta tags, but these labels, you can use 1-2 words. There will not be any problems.

=====

Re:Should Meta Tags be more than one Word?

Posted by mirandaex - 2013/08/23 06:00

Still you can use 2 or 3 words for meta tags.

=====

Re:Should Meta Tags be more than one Word?

Posted by jimmyus - 2013/09/10 07:20

Yes, You correct we must able to enclose Meta Tags more than the One Word.

=====

Re:Should Meta Tags be more than one Word?

Posted by JuliagGalax - 2013/09/25 09:17

Yes. Its better to use only 2 or 3 word.Not more than.

=====

Re:Should Meta Tags be more than one Word?

Posted by MazendaLee - 2013/09/26 06:14

It's good to shuffle your keyword with one or two words. It will looks more natural.

=====

Re:Should Meta Tags be more than one Word?

Posted by PertyJean - 2013/10/02 09:42

jimmyus wrote:

Yes, You correct we must able to enclose Meta Tags more than the One Word.

yes, But don't use too much. Don't spam on the articles. That what we've to do so..